Nathan Sanders named associate director for TLT Online Operations

The former instructional design manager and longtime employee will oversee Canvas LMS administration, direct the work of Exam Services at the UOnline Center, design projects to course development and support teams, and more.

“This is just a vision” — DDC tour surprises and impresses visitors

Some university authorities worried we were expecting neon lights and darkened clusters (and maybe Edward Snowden), but walked away with a much different perspective of the facility that houses a significant portion of the U’s storage and server capabilities.

UIT Leaders Spotlight:

Jill Brinton, Associate Director, Project Management Office

The Bountiful native, who says a job offer from a good friend lured her away from Silicon Valley, enjoys the diverse nature of her work, gardening, and traveling across the country for March Madness.
