With spring semester starting on Monday, January 6, 2020, UIT has again established a special monitoring and response team to swiftly address any core service degradation that may occur as students, faculty, instructors, and staff return to campus. Technical and support staff will use a dedicated Skype phone bridge and Microsoft Teams channel to quickly resolve any service issues. While our system monitoring efforts will help detect many possible service issues, your assistance in reporting issues directly to the UIT Help Desk remains essential.

If you notice a UIT service problem, please first check our notification systems (listed below) to see if it's a known issue that we're already working on.

If you don’t see the issue listed, we ask that you call the UIT Help Desk immediately to report it: 801-581-4000, option 1.

To reduce the likelihood of unplanned IT outages during key periods this calendar year, moratoriums on IT system and service changes will be in place. View upcoming UIT change moratorium dates.

The demand for network resources can outpace projections as people bring more network-connected devices to campus and as media-on-demand consumption increases. As with previous semester starts, in the event that network service becomes slow or otherwise degraded, we may need to temporarily reduce non-essential online service access. Services that could be limited include Netflix, Hulu, HBO Go/Now, ESPN, Amazon Prime Video, Twitch, and Valve.

If you have any questions, please call the UIT Help Desk at 801-581-4000, option 1.
